DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because reference numerals have not been used to identify each element of the drawings. For instance, a reference number, such as, 2, can be used along with the descriptive language "convolutional encoder" to designate the first element of fig. 1. Note that, the specification must be amended to reflect any change made to the drawing. A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371[®] of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Art Unit: 2631

3. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Vijayan et al US Patent No. 6,151,296.

As per claim 1, Vijayan et al discloses a transmitter fig. 2 comprising a convolutional encoder 26 for receiving data values said encoder 26 coupled to (concatenated with) an outer Reed-Solomon encoder 22 (see abstract); a bit-interleaver 28 interconnected with the (Reed Solomon) encoder 22; a symbol mapper 32 interconnected with said bit interleaver 28.

As per claim 2, the mapper 32 is a QAM Mapper see fig. 2.

As per claim 3, Vijayan et al further teaches a receiver fig. 3 having element 40 functionally equivalent to the claimed scorer for receiving symbols; a bit deinterleaver 50 see col.6, lines 48-51 interconnected with element 40 (scorer) and a convolutional decoder 52 interconnected with said bit deinterleaver 50.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vijayan et al in view of Cumberton et al Us patent No. 4,493,082.

As applied to claim 3 above, Vijayan discloses the invention substantially as claimed but does not explicitly teach that the scoring is based on a minimum squared distance. In the same field of endeavor, Cumberton teaches a scoring technique based on a minimum squared error see fig. 9 and col. 3, line 48-col. 4, lines 35. Given that fact, it would have been obvious to one skill in the art to incorporate such a teaching in Vijavan in order to develop network transitions as taught by Cumberton see col. 3, line 56.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed on 6/4/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that Vijayan does not provide a coding system adapted to be used in a cable TV system, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). It is further alleged that Cumberton et al does not teach the scoring of each bit separately, as recited in claim 5. However, in the same response page, applicant further stated that that the score taught by Cumberton is analogous to the score of claim 5 implying that scoring is done in similar fashion.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
